Also before the court is defendants' second motion in limine. (ECF No. 125). Plaintiffs filed a response (ECF No. 136), to which defendants replied (ECF No. 139).

Also before the court is plaintiffs' motion for reconsideration. (ECF No. 127). Defendants filed a response (ECF No. 132), to which plaintiffs replied (ECF No. 135).

Also before the court is defendants' first motion for summary judgment. (ECF No. 144). Plaintiffs filed a response (ECF No. 156), to which defendants replied (ECF No. 175).

Also before the court is defendants' second motion for summary judgment. (ECF No. 145). Plaintiffs filed a response (ECF No. 154), to which defendants replied (ECF No. 176).

Also before the court is defendants' third motion for summary judgment. (ECF No. 146). Plaintiffs filed a response (ECF No. 159), to which defendants replied (ECF No. 177).

1 I. Facts

2 Sands Corp. owns and operates several properties in Las Vegas including Sands Expo and 3 Convention Center, the Venetian, and the Palazzo. (ECF Nos. 55, 144-8). Sands Aviation, which 4 is a wholly owned subsidiary of Sands Corp., provides private aviation services for Sands Corp.’s 5 personnel and guests. (ECF No. 144-8). Every flight that Sands Aviation provides includes two 6 pilots: a pilot-in-command (“PIC”) and a second-in-command (“SIC”). (ECF Nos. 144, 156).
 7 Sands Aviation formerly employed plaintiffs as PICs. Id.

8 Although Sands Aviation directly hired pilots, Sands Corp. was extensively involved in 9 Sands Aviation’s employment practices. When Sands Aviation would hire new employees, it 10 would first contact Sands Corp. to facilitate background checks, drug tests, and process 11 administrative paperwork. (ECF Nos. 155-1, 155-5). Once employed, Sands Aviation required 12 employees to abide by Sands Corp.’s policies. (ECF Nos. 155-4, 155-5). If an employee violated 13 a policy, Sands Aviation would consult with Sands Corp. to determine an appropriate way to 14 discipline and document the violation. (ECF No. 155-5).

15 Pilots had several other conditions of employment that Sands Corp. controlled, such as the 16 manner in which pilots generated time share reports and maintained flight logs. (ECF Nos. 155-17 155-17, 155-18). Sands Corp. also directly paid Sands Aviation’s pilots and set their rate of pay. (ECF 18 Nos. 155-16, 155-25, 155-26). Lastly, in cases of employment termination, Sands Aviation would 19 typically seek Sands Corp. for advice and consultation. (ECF No. 155-5).

20 Defendants hired plaintiffs as PICs in furtherance of their private aviation services. (ECF 21 No. 144-8). However, the nature and scope of a PIC’s duties is unclear. Defendants have provided 22 deposition testimony showing that PICs bear greater responsibility than a SIC with regards to 23 flights safety decisions, operational control of the aircraft, and authority over flight crew. (ECF 24 Nos. 144-3, 144-4, 144-5, 144-6, 144-7, 144-10). Plaintiffs contested defendants’ position by 25 providing deposition testimony and documentary evidence showing htat PICs and SICs share most 26 responsibilities. (ECF No. 144-8, 157-6, 157-7).

27 The parties are substantially in agreement regarding the following facts pertaining to 28 plaintiffs’ employment.

- 1 • Kennedy worked as a PIC from October 10, 2011, to April 20, 2017, and received an
- 2 annual salary ranging from $125,000.00 to $142,151.10. (ECF No. 144-3).
- 3 • Snider worked as a PIC from March 20, 2014, to September 2, 2016, and received an
- 4 annual salary ranging from $125,000.00 to $130,049.92. (ECF No. 144-4).
- 5 • Ward worked as a PIC from April 20, 2013, to July 4, 2017, and received an annual
- 6 salary of $125,000.00 to $145,000.00. (ECF No. 144-5).
- 7 • Weston worked as a PIC from February 10, 2014, to July 2017 and received an
- 8 annual salary of $150,000.00 to $159,181.10. (ECF No. 144-6).
- 9 • Williamson worked as a PIC from June 2011 to April 2017 and received an annual
- 10 salary of $125,000.00 to $142,151.10. (ECF No. 144-7).

11 Plaintiffs' annual salaries did not include overtime compensation. See (ECF Nos. 144, 156).

12 On March 27, 2017, plaintiffs initiated this action. (ECF No. 1). On August 2, 2017, 13 plaintiffs filed their first amended complaint seeking three years of unpaid overtime, liquidated 14 damages, and attorney's fees for defendant's alleged violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act 15 ("FLSA"), 29 U.S.C. § 207 et seq., which requires employers to pay time and a half for hours that 16 employees work beyond 40 hours per week. (ECF No. 55). Approximately one year later, 17 defendants filed their answers to the amended complaint. (ECF Nos. 111, 112).

18 Now, the parties have filed several motions requesting multiple forms of relief, including 19 exclusion of evidence, reconsideration of a court order, and summary judgment. (ECF Nos. 124, 20 125, 127, 144, 145, 146).

21 II. Legal Standard

22 a. Reconsideration

23 A motion for reconsideration "should not be granted, absent highly unusual 24 circumstances." Marlyn Nutraceuticals, Inc. v. Mucos Pharma GmbH & Co., 571 F.3d 873, 880 25 (9th Cir. 2009). "Reconsideration is appropriate if the district court (1) is presented with newly 26 discovered evidence, (2) committed clear error or the initial decision was manifestly unjust, or (3) 27 if there is an intervening change in controlling law." School Dist. No. 1J v. ACandS, Inc., 5 F.3d 28 1255, 1263 (9th Cir. 1993); see Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b).

1 Rule 54(b) permits a district court to revise an order that does not terminate the action at 2 any time before the entry of judgment. Fed. R. Civ. P. 54(b); see also Los Angeles v. Santa Monica
 3 Baykeeper, 254 F.3d 882, 887 (9th Cir. 2001). However, reconsideration is “an extraordinary 4 remedy, to be used sparingly in the interests of finality and conservation of judicial resources.”
 5 Carroll v. Nakatani, 342 F.3d 934, 945 (9th Cir. 2003) (internal quotations omitted). A motion 6 for reconsideration is also an improper vehicle “to raise arguments or present evidence for the first 7 time when they could reasonably have been raised earlier in litigation.” Marlyn Nutraceuticals, 8 571 F.3d at 880.

9 b. Summary judgment

10 The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure allow summary judgment when the pleadings, 11 depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, 12 show that “there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to a 13 judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). A principal purpose of summary judgment is 14 “to isolate and dispose of factually unsupported claims.” Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 15 323–24 (1986).

16 For purposes of summary judgment, disputed factual issues should be construed in favor 17 of the non-moving party. Lujan v. Nat'l Wildlife Fed., 497 U.S. 871, 888 (1990). However, to be 18 entitled to a denial of summary judgment, the nonmoving party must “set forth specific facts 19 showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.” Id.

20 In determining summary judgment, a court applies a burden-shifting analysis. The moving 21 party must first satisfy its initial burden. “When the party moving for summary judgment would 22 bear the burden of proof at trial, it must come forward with evidence which would entitle it to a 23 directed verdict if the evidence went uncontested at trial. In such a case, the moving party has 24 the initial burden of establishing the absence of a genuine issue of fact on each issue material to 25 its case.” C.A.R. Transp. Brokerage Co. v. Darden Rests., Inc., 213 F.3d 474, 480 (9th Cir. 2000) 26 (citations omitted).

27 By contrast, when the nonmoving party bears the burden of proving the claim or defense, 28 the moving party can meet its burden in two ways: (1) by presenting evidence to negate an essential

1 element of the non-moving party's case; or (2) by demonstrating that the nonmoving party failed 2 to make a showing sufficient to establish an element essential to that party's case on which that 3 party will bear the burden of proof at trial. See Celotex Corp., 477 U.S. at 323–24. If the moving 4 party fails to meet its initial burden, summary judgment must be denied and the court need not 5 consider the nonmoving party's evidence. See Adickes v. S.H. Kress & Co., 398 U.S. 144, 159– 6 60 (1970).

7 If the moving party satisfies its initial burden, the burden then shifts to the opposing party 8 to establish that a genuine issue of material fact exists. See Matsushita Elec. Indus. Co. v. Zenith 9 Radio Corp., 475 U.S. 574, 586 (1986). To establish the existence of a factual dispute, the 10 opposing party need not establish a material issue of fact conclusively in its favor. It is sufficient 11 that “the claimed factual dispute be shown to require a jury or judge to resolve the parties’ differing 12 versions of the truth at trial.” T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc. v. Pac. Elec. Contractors Ass’n, 809 F.2d 626, 13 631 (9th Cir. 1987).

14 In other words, the nonmoving party cannot avoid summary judgment by relying solely on 15 conclusory allegations that are unsupported by factual data. See Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d 1040, 16 1045 (9th Cir. 1989). Instead, the opposition must go beyond the assertions and allegations of the 17 pleadings and set forth specific facts by producing competent evidence that shows a genuine issue 18 for trial. See Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324.

19 At summary judgment, a court’s function is not to weigh the evidence and determine the 20 truth, but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial. See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 21 Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986). The evidence of the nonmovant is “to be believed, and all 22 justifiable inferences are to be drawn in his favor.” Id. at 255. But if the evidence of the 23 nonmoving party is merely colorable or is not significantly probative, summary judgment may be 24 granted. See id. at 249–50.

25 III. Discussion

26 Six motions are pending before the court. First, the court will deny without prejudice 27 defendants’ motions in limine as premature. Second, the court will deny plaintiffs’ motion for 28 reconsideration in furtherance of the policy in favor of adjudicating cases on the merits. Third, the 1 court will strike defendants' third motion for summary judgment as being in excess of the 2 applicable page limit under the local rules. Lastly, the court will deny defendants' first and second 3 motions for summary judgment on the merits.

4 a. In limine

5 Defendants request that the court exclude expert Christopher Poreda and expert Steven 6 Martin's testimonies and reports. (ECF Nos. 124, 125). At this stage in litigation, plaintiffs have 7 not yet determined what evidence they intend to use at trial because the parties have yet to prepare 8 and file a proposed joint pretrial order. Therefore, defendants' motions in limine are premature.
 9 See Antoninetti v. Chipotle Mexican Grill, Inc., Nos. 05-cv-1660-J (WMc), 06-cv-2671 (WMc), 10 2007 WL 3333109 at *3 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 8, 2007) (denying plaintiff's motion in limine as 11 premature because defendant has not yet determined what evidence it will introduce).

12 b. Reconsideration

13 On October 23, 2018, the court denied plaintiffs' motion to strike defendants' answers.
 14 (ECF No. 114). Plaintiffs request that the court grant reconsideration because defendants' year 15 long delay caused plaintiffs remarkable prejudice. (ECF No. 127). The court disagrees and takes 16 this opportunity to sufficiently address plaintiffs' argument.

17 Plaintiffs filed their amended complaint on August 2, 2017. (ECF No. 55). The deadline 18 for defendants to file a response was August 16, 2017. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 15(a)(3). Defendants 19 did not file their answers until August 3, 2018, three-hundred and fifty-one (351) days after the 20 filing deadline. (ECF Nos. 111, 112).

21 At no point during defendants' delay did plaintiffs file a motion or otherwise indicate to 22 the court that they could not proceed without a response. After defendants filed their answers, 23 plaintiffs for the first time raised the issue, arguing that defendants' belated responses caused 24 remarkable prejudice to plaintiffs' case. See (ECF No. 114). However, plaintiffs did not provide 25 a single concrete example of how defendants' delay has caused prejudice or prevented plaintiffs 26 from adequately litigating this action.

27 The guiding principle behind the court's analysis is that "a case should, whenever possible, 28 be decided on the merits." United States v. Signed Personal Check No. 730 of Yubran S. Mesle,

1 615 F.3d 1085, 1089 (9th Cir. 2010) (quotes and citation omitted). Plaintiffs have proven that a 2 decision on the merits is possible by fully briefing responses to three motions for summary 3 judgment. See (ECF Nos. 154, 156, 159). The accompanying 130 exhibits further refute any 4 allegation that defendants' delayed responses caused substantial prejudice to discovery. See (ECF 5 Nos. 155, 157, 158, 161).

6 The court recognizes that approximately one year passed before defendants responded to 7 the amended complaint. This fact, however, is not determinative. "Even in cases where more than 8 a year has passed since the deadline to file an answer, courts are reluctant to grant motions to 9 strike." Barefield v. HSBC Holdings PLC, 1:18-cv-00527-LJO-JLT, 2019 WL 918206 at *3 (E.D.
 10 Cal. Feb. 25, 2019) (grammatical alterations added and citation omitted).

11 Accordingly, in order to ensure an adjudication on the merits, the court will not grant 12 reconsideration. See, e.g., Beal v. U.S. Dep't of Agric., No. cv-10-0257-EFS, 2012 WL 3113181, 13 at *2 (E.D. Wash. July 31, 2012) (declining to strike answer filed 14 months late because a decision 14 on the merits was possible). The court will also vacate its October 23, 2018, order and rely on the 15 foregoing grounds to deny plaintiffs' motion to strike.

16 c. Non-compliant document

17 Defendants have filed three motions for summary judgment. (ECF Nos. 144, 145, 146).
 18 The first motion briefs seventeen (17) pages on plaintiffs' FLSA claim. (ECF No. 144). The 19 second motion briefs eleven (11) pages on plaintiffs' FLSA claim. (ECF No. 145). The third 20 motion briefs another (22) pages on plaintiffs' FLSA claim. (ECF No. 146).

21 The court will not treat these documents as separate motions as they raise legal arguments 22 pertaining to the same cause of action. See (ECF Nos. 144, 145, 146). Thus, defendants have 23 briefed a total of fifty (50) pages in support of their motion for summary judgment—a clear 24 violation of the thirty (30) page limit set forth in Local Rule 7-3(a). As a remedial measure and 25 for purposes of judicial efficiency, the court will strike defendants' third motion for summary 26 judgment. See Ready Transp., Inc. v. AAR Mfg., Inc., 627 F.3d 402, 404 (9th Cir. 2010) (holding 27 that district courts have inherent power to control their own dockets).

28

1 d. Summary judgment

2 Defendants argue in their first and second motions for summary judgment that (1) plaintiffs 3 are exempt from overtime compensation under the FLSA and (2) Sands Corp. is not liable for 4 plaintiffs' damages because Sands Corp. did not employ plaintiffs. (ECF Nos. 144, 145).

5 Congress enacted the FLSA to protect workers from substandard wages and oppressive 6 hours. See Barrentine v. Arkansas-Best Freight System, Inc., 450 U.S. 728, 739 (1981); 29 U.S.C.
 7 § 202(a). To advance this policy, the act requires employers to pay their employees at least one 8 and one-half times an employee's regular rate of pay for hours worked in excess of forty hours per 9 week. 29 U.S.C. § 207(a)(1). Employers that violate the FLSA are liable for the amount of unpaid 10 overtime compensation and an additional equal amount as liquidated damages. See 29 U.S.C. § 11 216(b).

12 The FLSA's protection is not without exception. Employees that receive a high level of 13 compensation are exempt. 29 C.F.R. § 541.601(c). The FLSA also limits liability to defendants 14 that have an employer-employee relationship with plaintiffs. See Bonnette v. California Health &
 15 Welfare Agency, 704 F.2d 1465, 1469–70 (9th Cir. 1983); see also 29 U.S.C. § 203(d). The court 16 addresses these defenses in turn.

17 i. Plaintiffs are not exempt from the FLSA as a matter of law

18 Defendants argue that plaintiffs are exempt from the FLSA under the highly compensated 19 employee exemption. (ECF No. 144). A dispute of material fact precludes the court from 20 determining whether plaintiffs are exempt.

21 The secretary of labor has broad authority to promulgate regulations to define the scope of 22 FLSA exemptions. Baldwin v. Trailer Inns, Inc., 266 F.3d 1104, 1112 (9th Cir. 2001). Under 23 these regulations, a highly compensated employee (1) has a total annual compensation of at least 24 $100,000.00; (2) customarily and regularly performs any one or more of the exempt duties or 25 responsibilities of an executive, administrative, or professional employee; and (3) has a primary 26 duty that includes office or non-manual work. 29 C.F.R. §§ 541.601(a), (c)-(d).¹

27
 28 ¹ Courts narrowly construe exemptions against employers. Arnold v. Ben Kanowsky, Inc., 361 U.S. 388, 392 (1960).

1 Plaintiffs meet the first element because they earned annual salaries in excess of 2 $100,000.00. See (ECF Nos. 144-3, 144-4, 144-5, 144-6, 144-7). With respect to the second 3 element, defendants assert that plaintiffs regularly performed administrative and executive duties.
4 (ECF No. 144).

5 An employee engages in an administrative duty when he or she (1) performs office or non-6 manual work directly related to the management or general business operations of their employer 7 and employer's customers and (2) exercises discretion and independent judgment with respect to 8 matters of significance. 29 C.F.R. § 541.200(a)(2)-(3).

9 An employee engages in an executive duty when he or she (1) manages the employer's 10 enterprise or recognized subdivision of the enterprise as a primary duty; (2) regularly directs the 11 work of two or more other employees; and (3) has authority to hire or fire employees or whose 12 recommendation to such matter is given particular weight. Id. § 541.100(a)(2)-(4). An employee 13 need not meet all the requirements to be a highly compensated administrative or executive 14 employee. Id. at § 541.601(c).

15 The court cannot determine as a matter of law whether plaintiffs engaged in administrative 16 or executive duties. Defendants have provided deposition testimony showing that plaintiffs had 17 operational control of the aircraft, authority over flight crew, and made flight safety decisions.
18 (ECF Nos. 144-3, 144-4, 144-5, 144-6, 144-7, 144-10). Plaintiffs contested defendants' claims by 19 providing testimonial and documentary evidence showing that PICs did not engage in 20 discretionary acts or supervise two or more employees. (ECF Nos. 157-1, 157-6, 157-9, 157-10, 21 157-13). Thus, there exists a genuine dispute of material fact.

22 For the third and final element, office or non-manual work requires employees to perform 23 tasks that do not involve "repetitive operations with their hands, physical skill and energy . . ." 29 24 C.F.R. 541.601(d). Sands Aviation admits that plaintiffs' employment required physical stamina, 25 manual dexterity, and exposure to CRT fatigue, noise, and smoke. (ECF No. 112). However, 26 pilots also perform technical duties that require specialized training. See McCoy v. North Slope 27 Borough, No. 3:13-cv-00064-SLG, 2013 WL 4510780 at *10 (D. Ala. Aug. 26, 2013). These 28 discordant facts preclude summary judgment on the third element.

1 Defendants also argue, in the alternative, that they are not liable under the FLSA because 2 plaintiffs' fall under the combination exemption. (ECF No. 144). The relevant regulation provides 3 that “[e]mployees who perform a combination of exempt duties . . . for executive, administrative, 4 professional, outside sales and computer employees may qualify for exemption.” 29 C.F.R. § 5 541.708. The court has already explained that there exists a genuine dispute of fact pertaining to 6 the nature and scope of plaintiffs' duties. Therefore, the court will deny summary judgment with 7 regards to the combination exemption.

8 ii. Sands Corp. is an employer under the FLSA

9 Defendants argue that Sands Corp. is not liable under the FLSA because it did not jointly 10 employee plaintiffs with Sands Aviation. (ECF No. 145). The court disagrees.

11 FLSA liability applies to employers, which includes “any person acting directly or 12 indirectly in the interest of an employer in relation to an employee . . .” 29 U.S.C. § 203(d). The 13 existence of an employer-employee relationship depends on the “circumstances of the whole 14 activity.” Bonnette, 704 F.2d at 1469 (quoting Rutherford Food Corp. v. McComb, 331 U.S. 722, 15 730 (1947)). “Two or more employers may jointly employ someone for purposes of the FLSA.” 16 Id. (citing Falk v. Brennan, 414 U.S. 190, 195 (1973)). All joint employers are responsible for 17 compliance with the FLSA. Id.

18 In determining whether an employer-employee relationship exists, courts ask whether the 19 alleged employer “(1) had the power to hire and fire the employees, (2) supervised and controlled 20 employee work schedules or conditions of employment, (3) determined the rate and method of 21 payment, and (4) maintained employment records.” Id. These factors do not limit the court’s 22 analysis of the “total employment situation” and “economic realities of the work relationship.” Id.

23 Sands Corp. collaborated in Sands Aviation’s hiring process by conducting background 24 checks and processing administrative papers. (ECF Nos. 155-1, 155-5). Because these 25 responsibilities can reveal grounds to prevent a pilot from receiving employment, Sand Corp. had 26 some ability to control which employees Sands Aviation hired. As for the firing process, Sands 27 Aviation would routinely collaborate with Sands Corp. before terminating an employee. (ECF No.
 28 155-5).

1 Sands Corp. also controlled several conditions of employment including how pilots would 2 maintain flight records, which policies pilots had to adhere to, and the rate of pay that pilots would 3 receive. (ECF Nos. 155-4, 155-5, 155-16, 155-17, 155-18, 155-25, 155-26). Moreover, Sands 4 Aviation would consult with Sands Corp. in determining appropriate documentation methods and 5 disciplinary measures for pilots that violated Sands Corp.'s policies. (ECF No. 155-5).

6 In sum, Sands Corp. was substantially involved in plaintiffs' hiring process, firing process, 7 conditions of employment, rate of pay, and disciplinary measures. These circumstances establish 8 that Sands Corp. had an employer-employee relationship with plaintiffs. Therefore, the court will 9 deny defendants' second motion for summary judgment and hold that defendants jointly employed 10 plaintiffs.

11 IV. Conclusion
